To Preserve a Necktle.

Fred Hewen, who now deals in gentlemen's furnishing goods in a wholesale way, and who used to cater to the immaculate youth of Chicago in the same line, was in a party when a member of the group stepped to the adjacent mirror and attempted to adjust his stubborn necktie. "I can't make it stay in place," he complained, "and I guess I'll have to throw it away. It's about time, I think, ecause it is worn and all covered with forz. Hewen stepped toward the young man, and regarded the four-in-hand scarf with a critic's match, and, when it was burning well, he held it near the necktie. The flame lapped off the fuzz in an instant, and the tie was re urned looking as good as new, almost, 'Never throw away fuzzy neckties," said Fred. "Burn off the fuzz in that way and ou'll get twice the wear out of them."-
